Words of Wisdom

"Bedtime for Ted"

Ted was 5 and was not the most popular kid in his class. He was a little shy and didn’t have many friends. One day, his teacher, Mr. Thompson, decided to have a talk with Ted.

"Ted, tell me what’s wrong," Mr. Thompson said. "I heard you’re not very popular." Ted looked down at his feet, "I just don’t know what to say," he mumbled. "I feel left out," he continued.

Mr. Thompson smiled, "Well, Ted, you can start by listening to your friends. What do they say when they talk about their day?" Ted nodded.

"And what do you say when they talk about their day?" Mr. Thompson asked.

Ted thought for a moment, then said, "I say, ‘Hey, how was your day?’ I try to ask them what happened.”

"That’s a great start, Ted," Mr. Thompson said. "And what happens next?" Ted looked up, "I say, ‘Can I show you something?’ Then we play together.”

"That’s a wonderful way to make friends, Ted," Mr. Thompson said. "You’re doing great!" Ted beamed.

Classroom Humour

1. When you have a lot of test and no time to sleep, what do you do?
   - I just don’t study for them.
2. When you have no friends at all?
   - I’m the most popular person in school.
3. What’s the funniest thing you’ve heard?
   - ‘I’m not going to go to bed, Dad!”
