

GREENWOOD KINDER BUZZ

JAYANAGAR, OCTOBER, 2016

Communiqué from the Centre Head, Greenwood High Koramangala, PSAC

All children develop at different rates, however, children between 3-5 years are still developing socially and physically. Proper communication, guidelines and learning through the play method is very important at this developing stage. Teachers should maintain a steady stream of lesson plans to keep their children engaged with appropriate activities related to the curriculum and they should strike a balance between the academics part as well as the co-curricular activities. Parents involvement is very crucial to the child's well being. Giving little chores to the child is very important both in school and from the home front to create a sense of responsibility
